

Bigelow Says: '$60,000,000'

Try Your Own Arithmetic!

HERBERT S. BIGELOW, in a statement to the United Press at Columbus today, said the pension proposal he is sponsoring will cost no more than $60,000,000—that it is preposterous for the Ohio Emergency Committee to assert that it will cost more.

Previously he is understood to have estimated the cost from $60,000,000 to $100,000,000. Today he stood by the lower figure. He did not specify the number of claimants his plan would benefit.

It can be calculated what $60,000,000 will do.

The federal social security administration says 54 percent of the people over 60 are single, 46 percent married. Bigelow's plan for $50 to single persons, $40 each to married persons, therefore, would work out to an average of $45.50 monthly, $544.80 a year.

His figure of $60,000,000, hence, would provide such pensions for only 110,132 persons—ten thousand fewer than the state now pensions. If he had used his other estimate, $100,000,000, then 183,823 claimants could be accommodated.

OHIO now pays 120,000 persons over 65 an average of $23 monthly, $276 a year. The total cost this year will be $33,000,000. Ohio pays half and the federal government pays half. The claimant must establish need, have no income and not own a home in excess of $3,000 value.

Only these 120,000 claimants who have established need and are over 65 were paid Bigelow's average of $44.80 a year, it would cost $5,376,000. The federal government would pay as much as $20 monthly, $240 a year, toward the $544.80 pension—$304,800 a year. That would leave $3,071,200 for Ohio to pay.

But, as the Ohio Emergency Committee points out, this does not take into consideration the fact that there are 297,000 more men and women between 60 and 65 who could qualify for the full average of the Bigelow pension because they have no income beyond the contributions of relatives. Their need is not recognized by the federal government until age 65.

That makes a total of 417,000 in the non-income group.

At $544.80 a year they would draw $227,181,600.

THERE are 278,000 men and women over 60 with incomes averaging, according to the Ohio Emergency Committee, $25 a month, $300 a year. If, as Bigelow says, their incomes would have to be deducted from the amount of pensions, they would be able to claim an average of $244.30 a year.

This group would draw $68,080,275 a year.

Administration expense, calculated at $3 a pensioner less than the present cost of administration, would be approximately $8,000,000 a year.

These three items make a total cost of $303,241,875.

The federal government might be willing to pay $28,000,000 of this. Bigelow's proposed land tax might bring in $19,000,000 a year. His proposed state income tax might bring in $24,317,000. The state now contributes $17,000,000 to the existing pension system.

The total of these is $89,117,000.

Taking this sum of anticipated revenues from the $303,241,875 item of cost the Emergency Committee makes it clear that Ohio taxpayers would still have to dig up $214,124,875 to make the Bigelow pension system work—unless Bigelow wants to provide for only 110,132 persons and disregard the other 375,000.

Speaking before approximately 350 members of the Manufacturers' association last night, Weir said, "The American system was devised to give the individual the greatest possible freedom, security and prosperity. I am opposed to despotism. The antidote for totalitarianism and all 'isms' is to stay out of war."

Weir said private enterprise had gained popular support in the United States during the last two years. He expressed approval of the "profits" but opposed "profiteering." He said there was a difference.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 14.—Regional members of the National Association of Manufacturers today faced renewed demands of their leaders to "keep this country out of war" and a request of Ernest T. The executive council recommended the policy in a supplemental report as a means of keeping United States ships and citizens out of war zones and barring extension of credit which might involve this nation in foreign conflict.

In the closing hours of the convention yesterday, trade union delegates topped off two weeks of debating and speaking on the controversial issue of revising the neutrality act by adopting a stand that foreign powers making purchases in the United States be required to accept title here and carry them away in their own ships.

Columbiana Grace Church To Mark 125th Anniversary In Special Services Sunday

Dedication Program In Morning, Historical Service In Afternoon, and Union Evening Rites Listed
By Rev. Walter Gobrecht

Rev. Walter Gobrecht

COLUMBIANA, Oct. 14.—The 125th anniversary of the founding of the Grace Evangelical and Reformed church of Columbiana will be observed with three special services Sunday. Dr. Walter R. Gobrecht is pastor of the church.

A dedication and memorial service will be held at 10:30 a. m. followed in the afternoon by a historical anniversary service, starting at 2:30. A union evening service, opening at 7:30, will complete the anniversary celebration.

Dedicate Chancel, Choir Loft

A new chancel and choir loft, built in memory of "the pillars of the church of a former generation," will be dedicated at the morning service at which Rev. Stanley L. Fritz of Fostoria, a former pastor of the church, will speak.

Other special gifts to be dedicated at the morning service include a large Wurlitzer pipe organ, given to the church by Robert A. Moyer of Bethlehem, Pa.; a new pulpit Bible, presented by one of the members; a United States flag and a Christian flag, presented by a Sunday school class, and a baby grand piano, presented as a memorial.

Historical addresses, supplementing a 20-page booklet covering the congregation's history, will head the afternoon program. A number of the church's ministerial "sons," of whom there were 10, will speak. Prof. W. H. Gibson of Heidelberg college will present a 15-minute organ recital.

Special Music

A 45-minute organ recital by Prof. Gibson, including devotional numbers and special music, will feature the evening service in which other Columbiana churches will participate.

The history of the Grace church dates back to 1814 when the first church structure was built in Columbiana. It was of log construction and was used also for school purposes. At that time there were no denominational lines as yet in the village, but Rev. J. P. Mahender, one of the first three Reformed pioneer ministers in Ohio, served the congregation.

In 1822, a brick structure was erected to take the place of the log building, and this was made a union Reformed and Lutheran church. In 1867 the Lutherans withdrew and established their own church. The Reformed used the same site to build the nucleus of what is now the present church structure, though the building has been enlarged and remodeled several times since then.

Pastors Listed

The pastors who have served the congregation are: Revs. J. P. Mahender (1814-31), Henry Sonnendecker (1831-47), N. Paltridge (1847-51), Aaron Wanner (1851-58), J. Roemer (1858-63), James Reinhart (1860-70), Henry Hillibach (1870-72), John M. Kendig (1872-78), Henry T. Spangler, later President of Ursinus College (1878-80), J. H. Bomberger, later editor of the Christian World, (1880-84), 1885-97, J. V. Lerch (1885), A. V. Caselman (1898-1902), Frederick Gromer (1902-04), E. D. Wetach, D. D. (1904-05), George W. Welsh (1905-07), William Yenser (1908-17), A. Theodore Wright, S. T. D. (1917-1920).

SUGGESTS BAN ON 'OFFENSIVES'

Lindy Urges Sale Only of Defensive Weapons to Foreign Powers

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—Herbert Hoover's proposal that the United States retain an embargo on "offensive" weapons gained support today from Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, who suggested also that this country must demand ultimately that Britain and other European powers get out of the western hemisphere.

Members of the senate, who are considering President Roosevelt's request that the ban on arms sales to warring nations be lifted, refrain from immediate comment. However, their reaction to the idea of continuing the embargo on "offensive" weapons such as bombing planes—to use Lindbergh's example—while repealing it as to "defensive" weapons like anti-aircraft guns was indicated when former President Hoover made the suggestion last Tuesday.

Criticizes 'Immaterialities'

Chairman Pittman (D-Nev.) of the senate foreign relations committee, a leader of administration forces in the current controversy, commented at that time that "that's piddling around with immaterialities."

Senator Borah (R-Idaho), a leader of the foes of embargo repeal, said the first thing that occurred to him was how the plan could be made feasible; and Senator Nye (R-ND), another opponent of repeal, said he agreed with Hoover's suggestion in principle but that it might be difficult to

BRITONS CLAIM THREE GERMAN U-BOATS SUNK

Royal Oak, 29,150-ton Vessel, Goes Down With 1,000 Aboard

CASUALTY LIST NOT COMPLETED

Only Minor Activities Reported, Meanwhile, On Western Front

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, Oct. 14.—The admiralty announced this afternoon that approximately 370 men thus far had been saved from the sunken battleship Royal Oak. The warship's complement is said to be approximately 1,200 men.

This left 830 missing, far in excess of the loss of 515 men Sept. 17 when the aircraft carrier Courageous was torpedoed by a German submarine.

Germany scored her second undisputed major success in her campaign against Britain's naval might today with the sinking of the battleship Royal Oak.

The loss of the 29,150-ton, heavily-armored warship, one of the 15 capital ships in the British navy, was announced by the admiralty in a terse communique which expressed belief she was the victim of "U-boat action."

Less than a month ago, on Sept. 17, the aircraft carrier Courageous went down with a loss of 515 men after being torpedoed by a German submarine. Germans maintained that subsequently the aircraft carrier Ark Royal was sunk—something the British refused to admit and cited the visit of an American official to disprove.

Carried 1,000 Men

The Royal Oak carried more than 1,000 men but the casualty toll was not known immediately. The first list of survivors, 15 men already ashore, was issued soon after the sinking was announced.

News of the disaster came only a day after Britain had acclaimed victories for herself on sea by announcing the sinking of three German submarines.

The western front meanwhile continued the scene of minor activity and rain and fog settled over the lines.

The French explained the destruction of three Rhine bridges as a precautionary measure against possible surprise attack by German forces reported massed in sufficient strength for a large scale offensive.

The German army supreme command announced complete occupation of the German sphere of influence carved out of Poland.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 14.—The American Federation of Labor left the scene of its 39th convention today carrying a program that called for strict aloofness from war and the continuation of its established policies toward labor peace, partisan politics and revision of the Wagner act.

MODERNIZING BARNUM

Phineas T. Barnum was shrewd enough in his day, but he learned only half the truth. It was his notion that the people like to be fooled, which is all right as far as it goes, but what they really like is to fool themselves.

Take away self-deception and every get-rich-quick stunt on earth would fold up like a Bigelow pension crator in the presence of a curious questioner. Screw-ball pension schemes, themselves, invariably are hung on human nature's fondness for kidding itself.

The tragedy of it is that the only way to stop it is to have a showdown. Even that has shortcomings; Alberta in Canada and Colorado in the United States both have burned their fingers on nut schemes, but that doesn't keep thousands of Californians and Ohioans from taking $30-Every-Thursday and the Bigelow lamboozle hook, line and sinker. This will be the second time California's had to rally 'round the polls to out-vote the gullible.

Barnum's quoted to the effect that there's a sucker born every minute. That's old fashioned too. These days there's a sucker reaching the age of 60 every minute. Age can't be helped; it's something to be proud of and to be respected. But living should teach—if it can teach anything—that something for nothing isn't one of the facts of life.

WHOSE BABY IS IT?

Gov. Bricker can't be blamed for wanting to share responsibility for deciding about a special session on relief with legislative leaders. Big city pressure groups can't expect the governor to stand by and do nothing while they put the squeeze on him for their troubles.

They have taken the attitude that relief is the state administration's baby. They have thrown up their hands so often it has become a habit. So the legislature decided to quit taking the blame for not passing a new law every time the local groups yelled, "Wolf!"

The main idea in the new relief setup was to make relief administration units (cities and counties) match state funds. This represented in large part the opinion of rural legislators that relief is not their baby—at least not any more than 50 percent. It didn't make clear to the "city fellers" how to raise the wherewithal to do the matching, but that's not the rural legislators' baby either—not even a fraction of it.

Under the circumstances it was inevitable that sooner or later the urban bloc was going to try to blame Gov. Bricker for its troubles. It probably was inevitable, also, that Gov. Bricker was going to try to pass along the hot potato to legislative leaders. It's not his baby either.

WE OBJECT

For the sake of the record, the United States should give Finland the benefit of a protest against Russian strong-arm tactics. This government is on extra friendly footing with Finland, only European country to make a stab at keeping up its payments.

On Sept. 26, 1938, President Roosevelt sent a personal message to Hitler, Benes, Chamberlain, Daladier et al, urging negotiations instead of aggression. The next day he appeared directly to Hitler. Shortly afterward, Germany took over Czechoslovakia.

Last April 15, Mr. Roosevelt again appealed to Hitler, and also to Mussolini. If the fuhrer would promise not to attack 31 countries, Mr. Roosevelt would persuade them not to attack him. There was no reply till April 28, when Hitler gave Mr. Roosevelt the horse laugh in a speech to the reichstag.

On Aug. 24, with the Polish crisis getting hot, Mr. Roosevelt once more appealed to Hitler, including also the president of Poland and the king of Italy, for a peaceful settlement. Shortly afterward, Hitler had seized everything he wanted in that direction and had invited in Russia to divide the spoils. Now Russia must be included in the mailing list.

Ch yes, on Sept. 1 the President appealed to Germany, Poland, Britain, France and Italy not to bomb civilian populations and unfortified towns. No European will be caught in an unfortified town if he can help it. Still, it may be interesting for them to know Uncle Sam's against the things that are happening to them.

THE TRAP SNAPS SHUT

Great Britain and France will not dicker for peace on Germany's terms. Prime Minister Chamberlain's firm refusal has been added to Premier Daladier's rejection of Adolf Hitler's terms. Barring some unforeseen development, the second World war will now proceed in grim earnest.

It is as though Hitler had ventured too close to a trap and the trap had snapped shut on his fingers. He risked war, but could not have wanted it. He is the victim of his own audacious statesmanship, which started with the assumption the British and French would not resist. His statesmanship has stopped with the same assumption; Hitler will have no further time for statesmanship. He must try his hand now at militarism.

The vital fact about the war he has precipitated is this: No one dares to claim it will be successful. Even Mr. Chamberlain grimly prophesies to his own countrymen that "whatever may issue from the struggle the world will not be the same world we have known before." Britain won't be the same; France won't be the same; Germany won't be the same; no country on earth will be the same. There will be no victors, only losers.

This hopeless situation has come about because an individual who happened to be head of a great nation adopted a creed of rule or ruin. He staked everything on the theory that he could make Germany the dominant nation of Europe and himself the preceptor of European affairs. He disregarded history and humanity's natural aversion to men who seek too much power. He ordained by his own violence that he would be destroyed by violence. There are numerous reasons why these things came to a head in the person of one man, but they did and the inevitable result is now at hand.

THE STARS SAY:

For Sunday, October 15

SUNDAY'S horoscope is a very propitious one for all spiritual, religious, educational and philanthropic activities, although there are probabilities that suddenly-upset plans will demand revamping and reorganizing of a rather drastic force. But this will prove of definite benefit, with happy and desirable change of environs and associates. Social matters should flourish.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of growth, expansion and fulfilled ambitions, with increased fortune and enhanced popularity, although such progress may call for new plans, place of residence and new contacts. It is a propitious time for putting over major programs, but with good judgment and sound advice from influential persons.

A child born on this day may be ambitious and efficient, and have much progressive and extraordinary idealism. But it may be erratic, restive and turbulent unless given early discipline and direction into constructive lines.

For Monday, October 16

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is for a very lively day, with much enterprise and initiative, especially in new channels. But there may be trivial annoyances and obstructions. In social, romantic or domestic relations there may be peculiar or unaccountable developments, possibly of a sudden and spectacular nature. Impulsive or drastic actions may be hazardous to happiness.

Those whose birthday it is are likely to have a very active and exciting year, with swift-moving events despite small anxieties and impediments. The personal life seems to have a hint of rather thrilling or sensational developments unless handled circumspectly.

A child born on this day may be talented, resourceful, energetic and aggressive, and at the same time artistic, friendly and socially-inclined. It may be quick-tempered and impulsive despite its loving and kindly nature.

Eating Your Way To Long Life Advised By Doctors

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

OF ALL the methods which have been assumed to be conducive to longevity, diet has always played a most prominent part. From the earliest record to the latest fads, the insistence has been on rules of eating as a means to longevity. More persistent than anything has been the idea that the use of milk is conducive to health and long life.

Marco Polo lived in the thirteenth century among the tartars of Central Asia. He wrote of them "They are capable of enduring every kind of privation, and when there is a necessity for it, can live for a month on the milk of their mares, and on such wild animals as they may chance to catch. They subsist for the most part on milk."

Dr. Clending will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Another ancient author, Herodotus, says of the Ethiopians that they "ate boiled flesh and had for their dinner nothing but milk," and that "most of them lived to be one hundred and twenty years old." But, as everyone knows, Herodotus exaggerated most of the time.

Lived Without Salt

In Prescott's HISTORY OF THE CONQUEST OF MEXICO he refers to an Indian tribe named the Tlascalans. "In this connection it is interesting to note how healthy and vigorous were the inland dwelling pastoral nomads, who could not always get salt in abundance. And pertinent to this discussion is the case of the Tlascalans lived in the interior of Mexico; and as their territory was surrounded on all sides by the territory of the hostile Aztec empire, they were cut off from access to the sea and salt."

Prescott further says, "For more than a century they had neither cacao or salt. Indeed, their taste had been so affected by long abstinence from these articles that it required the labors of several generations after the conquest to reconcile them to the use of salt with their meals." Notwithstanding this deprivation of salt to add to their food, they were better fighters than their liberal salt-eating neighbors; they successfully resisted the powerful Aztec empire.

Famous Book

The most famous book on how to attain old age is by Luigi Cornaro, a Venetian. When he was between 30 and 40 years old, he described himself as being afflicted with pains in the stomach, gout, slow fever and a perpetual thirst. On the advice of his physicians he began to use only such food as is prescribed for sick persons, and that sparingly. In less than a year he found himself entirely free from his complaints, so he decided that if this temperate diet would cure his grievous disorders, it would have the power to preserve him in health, so he continued in the same way of eating. He reached an old age, vigorous and alert. His sight and hearing were so keen at 84 that he said he never knew the world was so beautiful until he reached old age. He died in 1566, aged 100.

Unquestionably, the use of simple foods and temperate eating tends to make possible a placid mind and good health. But the best groundwork for long life is the soil, or the constitution of the body which you have inherited.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Seven pamphlets by Dr. Clending can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clending, 235 E. 45th St., New York City. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetics," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

MODERNIZING BARNUM

Phineas T. Barnum was shrewd enough in his day, but he learned only half the truth. It was his notion that the people like to be fooled, which is all right as far as it goes, but what they really like is to fool themselves.

Take away self-deception and every get-rich-quick stunt on earth would fold up like a Bigelow pension orator in the presence of a curious questioner. Screw-ball pension schemes, themselves, invariably are hung on human nature's fondness for kidding itself.

The tragedy of it is that the only way to stop it is to have a showdown. Even that has shortcomings; Alberta in Canada and Colorado in the United States both have burned their fingers on nut schemes, but that doesn't keep thousands of Californians and Chicanos from taking $30-Every-Thuesday and the Bigelow lamboozle hook, line and sinker. This will be the second time California's had to rally round the polls to out-vote the gullible.

Barnum's quoted to the effect that there's a sucker born every minute. That's old fashioned too. These days there's a sucker reaching the age of 60 every minute. Age can't be helped; it's something to be proud of and to be respected. But living should teach—if it can teach anything—that something for nothing isn't one of the facts of life.

WHOSE BABY IS IT?

Gov. Bricker can't be blamed for wanting to share responsibility for deciding about a special session on relief with legislative leaders. Big city pressure groups can't expect the governor to stand by and do nothing while they put the squeeze on him for their troubles.

They have taken the attitude that relief is the state administration's baby. They have thrown up their hands so often it had become a habit. So the legislature decided to quit taking the blame for not passing a new law every time the local groups yelled, "Wolf!"

The main idea in the new relief setup was to make relief administration units (cities and counties) match state funds. This represented in large part the opinion of rural legislators that relief is not their baby—at least not any more than 50 percent. It didn't make clear to the "city fellers" how to raise the wherewithal to do the matching, but that's not the rural legislators' baby either—not even a fraction of it.

Under the circumstances it was inevitable that sooner or later the urban bloc was going to try to blame Gov. Bricker for its troubles. It probably was inevitable, also, that Gov. Bricker was going to try to pass along the hot potato to legislative leaders. It's not his baby either.

'WE OBJECT'

For the sake of the record, the United States should give Finland the benefit of a protest against Russian strong-arm tactics. This government is on extra friendly footing with Finland, only European country to make a stab at keeping up its payments.

On Sept. 26, 1938, President Roosevelt sent a personal message to Hitler, Benes, Chamberlain, Daladier et al, urging negotiations instead of aggression. The next day he appealed directly to Hitler. Shortly afterward, Germany took over Czechoslovakia.

Last April 15, Mr. Roosevelt again appealed to Hitler, and also to Mussolini. If the fuhrer would promise not to attack 31 countries, Mr. Roosevelt would persuade them not to attack him. "There was no reply till April 28, when Hitler gave Mr. Roosevelt the horse laugh in a speech to the reichstag.

On Aug. 24, with the Polish crisis getting hot, Mr. Roosevelt once more appealed to Hitler, including also the president of Poland and the king of Italy, for a peaceful settlement. Shortly afterward, Hitler had seized everything he wanted in that direction and had invited in Russia to divide the spoils. Now Russia must be included in the mailing list.

Oh yes, on Sept. 1 the President appealed to Germany, Poland, Britain, France and Italy not to bomb civilian populations and unfortified towns. No European will be caught in an unfortified town if he can help it. Still, it may be interesting for them to know Uncle Sam's against the things that are happening to them.

THE TRAP SNAPS SHUT

Great Britain and France will not dicker for peace on Germany's terms. Prime Minister Chamberlain's firm refusal has been added to Premier Daladier's rejection of Adolf Hitler's terms. Barring some unforeseen development, the second World war will now proceed in grim earnest.

It is as though Hitler had ventured too close to a trap and the trap had snapped shut on his fingers. He risked war, but could not have wanted it. He is the victim of his own audacious statesmanship, which started with the assumption the British and French would not resist. His statesmanship has stopped with the same assumption: Hitler will have no further time for statesmanship. He must try his hand now at militarism.

The vital fact about the war he has precipitated is this: No one dares to claim it will be successful. Even Mr. Chamberlain grimly prophesies to his own countrymen that "whatever may issue from the struggle the world will not be the same world we have known before." ## CHAPTER XX

They didn't go through the gate, but on further because they were to be in the Yates' box. The crowd was breaking into a run as Ralston drove up to the gate. It was just game time. As they ran down the concrete driveway, they passed a young girl in a wheel chair. Mike was behind Carol and Ralston. In a flash, she unspun the gorgeous dress, dropped it into the girl's lap.

"Please take it," she said and then she was racing after Carol and Ralston. They came panting out into the sunlight, and the packed grandstands all about them. Mike's heart tightened. She never failed to get a lift out of the crowd. The brilliant green of the diamond, even though it was September, the flag flying high from the tall pole, the thousands of flashes of faces with voices that chattered and screamed.... They found their seats. Mike and Marvin were reading off Mike's name. They were so close to the New York dugout that she could not see in it. She was leaning forward, tense, tried to keep her mind on the game. Ralston and Carol kept up a steady conversation. It was maddening.

The first part of the inning was not so bad. No score. But the opposing pitcher looked pretty good. He struck out Ace Barnes. Ralston pointed out all this and Mike could not be nervous and angry. Then Handsome came out on the pitching mound amidst a roar. It was plain to see the fans liked the kid. From the first, Mike could see it would not be an easy victory.... If it was to be a victory, Handsome did not seem steady. He walked the first man, and soon the bases were loaded.

"Wild, wild as a hawk!" Ralston grumbled. Mike pretended she did not hear him. Every game meant too much. It was pretty important, too. World's Series money!

Mike bit her lower lip. It was a bad situation, and Ace was short on pitchers. Handsome just had to come through. But when the inning was ended, Chicago was one run ahead.

"I told you! I told you!" Ralston kept saying. Even Carol was annoyed with him. When Ace came back to the dugout, he stopped and looked into the box. For a moment his eye caught Mike's but there was no recognition. The Chicago fans were chanting, "Beat New York!" Every one of them knew that the Yanks were trying to clinch the pennant on that last trip west.

Oddly enough, by the third inning, Handsome had settled down. By the fourth inning, he was doing all right. By the sixth, he was in his real form. All the boys had to do was to get him two runs, and they would be all set. They had three more tries for those needed runs.

In the eighth inning, Marvin got a scratch single, just barely made first base. Ace followed with a double, and Marvin got to third base. At the end of that inning the score was tied.

And in the ninth, Handsome scored the run which broke the tie. He held Chicago hitless in the final half and so New York won, 2 to 1. Ace was jubilant. He could feel that Series check in his hands already.

Mike, limp, but happy, went with Carol and Ralston to get the car and wait for Dusty and Handsome. Carol insisted that Mike sit up front with Mr. Ralston. Dusty came out of the clubhouse first. He saw Carol and Mike in Ralston's car.

"Hello, Ralston. Carol, we're going with Ace and his wife for dinner. He's got his car. Sorry, and thanks." Carol got out of Ralston's car obediently. It was embarrassing, but Carol smoothed over the situation gracefully.

Mike left with Ralston, made no comment for Handsome was coming now, and the fans were rushing him. He squeezed into the front seat of the town car with Mike and his host. Mike made the introductions as Ralston drove.

"Mr. Ralston was at the party last night," Mike explained. "He brought Carol and me out to the game in this car." "I thought you hadn't come out today," Handsome told Mike. "You weren't in your regular place. It made me nervous."

"I thought they'd like the box seats better," Ralston explained. Handsome made no comment. At the hotel they parted from Ralston pleasantly enough. But it was not until after he had gone that Mike realized Handsome was angry about something.

"Let's go up to the suite. Dusty and Carol won't be there. I want to talk to you." Mike was contrite. She knew she should have been at the park earlier.

"Go on up, I'll get our mail," he added. Mike was worried and unhappy. She welcomed this chance to talk quietly with Handsome. But when she reached the suite, she could hear Carol's voice. The Lees were home.

As Mike walked in, Dusty called to her: "Is Larry with you?" "He'll be along in a few minutes." Dusty reared back in his chair and glared at Mike.

"I suppose you know you almost lost that ball game for us today?" Mike tried to speak but her voice would not come.

"You were brought along for just one purpose. To be out there at the park, and on time." Mike could hear Handsome come in the door behind her. She tried to stop Dusty: "Quiet, nothing! Why you little tramp! You leave Ralston alone until after the series...." Dusty never finished the sentence. Handsome was in the room, at Dusty's side.

"Get up!" Dusty struggled to his feet. Handsome swung to Dusty's chin with his left. But Lee was too quick for him. His strong right arm was up and Handsome's fist struck it with a.... crack! If it had been a shot, it would not have been so horrifying to those who heard it. They stood there for a second or two, staring at Handsome's fist. It was Mike who finally found her voice, just a whisper: "Your hand!"

Mike, Carol, Dusty and Handsome stood staring at the latter's pitching hand. Nobody moved. Anger died as suddenly as it had flared. It left four frightened people. Handsome moved his hand gingerly. It was obvious that it hurt badly.

"It's swelling. Come in the bathroom. We'll put hot water on it." Mike threw off her jacket, rushed in to let the water run hot.

Dusty grunted. "It will take more than hot water."

"Try it," Mike begged. Handsome came to her. Their eyes met. "It's badly hurt, isn't it?" Mike kept her voice level.

"I'm afraid so." Dusty was at the telephone. "We'd better get Ace up here right away, and the doctor. There's no use foolin' Larry."

Five minutes later Ace knocked at the door. Carol let him in.

"What's wrong?" There was no need to ask. The four in the room sat around staring at each other, and Handsome was holding his hand.

"Did you get hold of Doc?" Ace spoke to Dusty. He asked for no explanations.

"Get his coat on, Dusty. We're going to the hospital. We want to know just how bad this is." "Hadn't I better go?" Dusty asked.

Ace withered him with one look: "Stay here and keep off the woves. Try not to answer the telephone and don't let anybody know." Handsome looked at Mike. She came over, stood on tiptoe, kissed him. "I'll be waiting."

"Come on," was Ace's only comment. "Go on up, I'll get our mail," he added.

Mike was worried and unhappy. She welcomed this chance to talk quietly with Handsome. But when she reached the suite, she could hear Carol's voice. The Lees were home.

As Mike walked in, Dusty called to her: "Is Larry with you?" "He'll be along in a few minutes." Dusty reared back in his chair and glared at Mike.

"I suppose you know you almost lost that ball game for us today?" Mike tried to speak but her voice would not come.

"You were brought along for just one purpose. To be out there at the park, and on time." Mike could hear Handsome come in the door behind her. She tried to stop Dusty: "Quiet, nothing! Why you little tramp! You leave Ralston alone until after the series...." Dusty never finished the sentence. Handsome was in the room, at Dusty's side.

"Get up!" Dusty struggled to his feet. Handsome swung to Dusty's chin with his left. But Lee was too quick

for him. His strong right arm was up and Handsome's fist struck it with a.... crack! If it had been a shot, it would not have been so horrifying to those who heard it. They stood there for a second or two, staring at Handsome's fist. It was Mike who finally found her voice, just a whisper: "Your hand!"

Mike, Carol, Dusty and Handsome stood staring at the latter's pitching hand. Nobody moved. Anger died as suddenly as it had flared. It left four frightened people. Handsome moved his hand gingerly. It was obvious that it hurt badly.

Old orthodox Jews, wearing caftans, turned out to help build the Warsaw barricades as the Polish capital heroically withstood the fierce onslaughts of the mighty German army for three weeks. When the city fell, many of these men, it is reported, were killed or interned in concentration camps.

fire. They must have seen Handsome leaving the hotel and spread the news. Everybody in the hotel knows it now.

"I don't think it's anything serious, boys. Only Ace is jumpy with the Series only three weeks away." Carol and Mike were just inside the bedroom door listening.

"You're sure Miss Shannon didn't go with him to the hospital?" "Sure! Hey, Mike! The boys want to be sure you and Carol are here." It was that effort of Dusty's to prove to the boys that "everything was on the level" that caused much trouble afterward.

"We're coming," answered Mike. To Carol she pleaded: "I look terrible. They'll know I've been crying. And my jacket's out there."

"Fix your hair. Here's my powder. Now go on."

So Mike walked out into the sitting room. She had met three of the reporters on her first day in Chicago. They fired questions.

"You drove back from the park with him. What happened?" "Handsome will tell you all about it shortly. There isn't any use making such a fuss over it, he'll be all right in a day or two," Mike spoke, but her voice sounded as though she were trying desperately to convince herself.

The reporters' sharp eyes spotted several bruised places on Mike's arm.

"You weren't, both of you, in an auto accident were you?" one of them asked, pointing to the arm. The purple marks seemed to stand out. Dusty stared at them. So did Carol.

Mike's face was crimson: "I fell against a door," she said in obvious confusion. Dusty was unperturbed. He'd forgotten he had hurt Mike's arm so badly the night before. Carol remembered, and she groaned inwardly. Of everybody in that room, she was the only one then to foresee what might happen. "Boys, Dusty's starving. We'd ask you to stay for dinner but we're so worried about Handsome. I know it's nothing, but he's so important."

Leave it to Carol. She said just the right thing while Mike covered there, knowing those four pairs of eyes were fastened on her bruised arm.

Furs Are Big Favorites Again This Year

Furs really have come into their own again this season. They go perfectly with the clothes you'll be wearing, according to stylists. The full-length ermine coat is reminiscent of the days of the Russian imperial court. It has a rippled front with skins worked in chevron stripes. A white Cossack ermine hat with a black silk jersey wimple completes the ensemble. The bolero is made of the new ruby-tinted silver fox that is the color rage this year. The hat is a puff of the same ruby fox.

Fancy Telephones Not To Cost Extra

COLUMBUS, Oct. 14. — Telephone users will not have to pay an extra charge for the popular handset, or cradle-type phone after Jan. 1, the state utility commission said today.

Officials of the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. said the commission order to discontinue the charge would mean a loss of $12,000 a year in revenue and might require the expenditure of $3,000,000 for additional handsets.

A company announcement said that of its 748,290 telephones in service, 442,224 were of the cradle type, on which it collected an extra charge of 15 cents monthly, but continuing the fee after $2.70 has been paid.

The commission authorized the company to make a $1 service connection charge for installing phone. The firm now charges $1 to most.

Furs Are Big Favorites Again This Year

Furs really have come into their own again this season. They go perfectly with the clothes you'll be wearing, according to stylists. The full-length ermine coat is reminiscent of the days of the Russian imperial court. It has a rippled front with skins worked in chevron stripes. A white Cossack ermine hat with a black silk jersey wimple completes the ensemble. The bolero is made of the new ruby-tinted silver fox that is the color rage this year. The hat is a puff of the same ruby fox.

Grace Reformed Church To Observe 125th Anniversary

21), E. F. Wiest, D. D. (1922-32), Stanley L. Fritz (1932-36), Walter R. Gobrecht, S. T. D. (since Jan. 1, 1937).

The congregation received denominational recognition in 1899 during the pastorate of Dr. A. V. Casselman, when in general Synod meeting in Tiffin it swung the sentiment for opening missionary work in China by agreeing to assume the financial support of the first missionary to join with Dr. Hoy in founding the new mission.

Rev. Frederick Croner was chosen for this work. He had to retire from the field a few years later because of impaired eyesight and Rev. and Mrs. William A. Reimert were sent to be the co-laborers of Dr. and Mrs. Hoy. In 1920 Rev. Reimert became "the Martyr of Huping." Pictures of him and Mrs. Reimert hang upon the walls of the lecture room of the church.

Plans began to be formulated two years ago for the observance of the 125th anniversary, and within the last year's time a number of physical repairs and improvements have been made to the church property, looking forward to the anniversary. Besides the new installations which were previously mentioned to be dedicated Sunday, a new heating system has been installed, the ceiling of the auditorium has been insulated, a new lighting system was contributed by one of the elders as a memorial to his wife, and the church has been re-decorated on the interior and repainted on the exterior.

W. Winters, of Fairfield school faculty; hymn, followed by sermon by Rev. Stanley L. ## Fancy Telephones Not To Cost Extra

COLUMBUS, Oct. 14. — Telephone users will not have to pay an extra charge for the popular handset, or cradle-type phone after Jan. 1, the state utilities commission said today.

Officials of the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. said the commission order to discontinue the charge would mean a loss of $12,000 a year in revenue and might require the expenditure of $3,000,000 for additional handsets.

A company announcement said that of its 748,290 telephones in service, 442,224 were of the cradle type, on which it collected an extra charge of 15 cents monthly, discontinue the fee after $2.70 had been paid.

The commission authorized the company to make a $1 service connection charge for installing phones. The firm now charges $1 to move them.

Complete services are as follows:

Sunday school, 9:45. (Matthew 4:1-11) Charles W. Youtz, superintendent.

"It was a real temptation that Jesus, our Saviour had to face. There was nothing about it that was mere sham and empty ritualism. This fact must give strength to every Christian who bravely battles against the wiles of the devil. Jesus knows the strength and persistence of the tempter. He knows also that victory is possible against the ways of evil. It is true that real living does not depend entirely upon physical things. No life is complete without God. Christians need no proof that God is good and that He throws about us His protective love and redeeming grace. Worship only should be directed to God. No other is worthy of it."

Morning worship, 11; sermon. "The living of the Christian life is not always easy. There are some responsibilities which we cannot avoid as disciples of the Christ. The work of intercessory prayer must not be crowded out of our busy lives. The extending of the hand of helpfulness and strength to the wayward person must be done with the expressed assurance of the help of Christ. The concern for the lost sinners and the godless people who are far from the Kingdom of God is not to be taken lightly. Christians are assigned tasks which are of great importance to the Kingdom of God."

Luther League, 6:30; Leader, Evelyn Koch.

Complete services are as follows: Sunday school, 9:45; (Matthew 4:1-11) Charles W. Youtz, superintendent.

"It was a real temptation that Jesus, our Saviour had to face. There was nothing about it that was mere sham and empty ritualism. This fact must give strength to every Christian who bravely battles against the wiles of the devil. Jesus knows the strength and persistence of the tempter. He knows also that victory is possible against the ways of evil. It is true that real living does not depend entirely upon physical things. No life is complete without God. Christians need no proof that God is good and that He throws about us His protective love and redeeming grace. Worship only should be directed to God. No other is worthy of it."

Morning worship, 11; sermon, "The living of the Christian life is not always easy. There are some responsibilities which we cannot avoid as disciples of the Christ. The work of intercessory prayer must not be crowded out of our busy lives. The extending of the hand of helpfulness and strength to the wayward person must be done with the expressed assurance of the help of Christ. The concern for the lost sinners and the godless people who are far from the Kingdom of God is not to be taken lightly. Christians are assigned tasks which are of great importance to the Kingdom of God."

Luther League, 6:30; Leader, Evelyn Koch.

Notre Dame-Southern Methodist, Texas-Oklahoma, Tulane-Pennsylvania and Southern California-Illinois form the second line of attack.

Cornell Plays Princeton

The Big Ten will offer the strongest sectional lineup. Leading the list are two games in which both parties have title aspirations: Ohio State-Northwestern and Minnesota-Purdue. Cornell will make its first bid for eastern Ivy league honors against Princeton, Mississippi State will seek its second Southeastern conference scalp. Auburn's Baylor will open its Southwest conference campaign against Arkansas and California, knocked off and down by two "outsiders," will have Oregon's winning streak to crack in its Pacific Coast conference bowl.

At Columbus, incubator of grandstand quarterbacks, they're counting on a turnout of 69,000 to see the Buckeyes play the vengeance-bent Northwestern eleven.

Endres-Gross and Jean Frocks pulled up even with the Smith Garage in the Grate Ladies league at the Grate Recreation alley last night, throwing the battle for first place in the women's circuit into a three-way tie.

The Endres-Gross ladies swept three games from the Sunny Shoppe and the Frocks won three heats with Brownie's Service. Smith Garage was held to two wins by Finney's Beauty Shoppe. Grate Recreation ladies moved into fourth position by winning two out of three games with the Trades Class, while the Church Budget took over sixth place on the strength of two victories over the Unknowns. Kaufman's advanced into a tie for seventh place by winning three games from the Sinclairs.

Miss Olive Ramsey of the Endres-Gross team and Mrs. Alice Harris of the Jean Frocks set the individual pace. Miss Ramsey posted a 536 series on games of 160, 167 and 269, and Mrs. Harris figured a 511 set on games of 159, 208 and 144.

The leading Brownie's Service team was idle in the Federal league at the Masonic temple alleys last night while the second-place Sanitary Foremen strengthened their position by winning three games from the Eagles.

The Ohio Edison Dodgers and Meissner's remained tied for third place, the Dodgers winning three games over the K. of C. and Meissner's taking three heats from the National Brass & Copper. Merv Thomas of Meissner's, who had a hot night at the Grate lanes earlier this week, continued his "hot" streak by hammering out a 523 series on games of 176, 225 and 182.

BUCKEYES FACE BIG TEN RIVAL IN GAME TODAY

Ohio State, Northwestern Open Their Western Conference Play

BY FRITZ HOWELL
COLUMBUS, Oct. 14.—Northwestern and Ohio State squared off in Buckeye stadium today for their opening contest of the Western conference campaign, and the spotlight was focused fully on Big Ten's top-ranked Buckeyes.

The 20-year-old speed king, most publicized sophomore of the year, hoped to use the game as his springboard to Big Ten fame. His mother made the trip from Chicago to see him in action in his first conference tilt.
Although no one expects the kid to match the record he made as a high school senior in 1937, when he scored well over 200 points, he is slated to do all right if his mates are to be believed.

"Bill's got the stuff, in bunches," was the collegiate manner in which a group of his purple-clad partners summed him up yesterday as the "Cats" romped through a final workout at the Buckeye stadium. Coach Lynn Waldorf, voted the luckiest coach in the country when Bill picked Northwestern for his alma mater, grinned as he said.

Coach Is Glad

"I'm glad to have Bill on the squad. He's a good kid."

Two other sophomores, Ira Kephart and Don Clowson, were slated for starting berths in the Wildcat backfield along with veteran Jack Ryan at Quarterback. The line was an all-veteran wall. Ohio State, 19-0 victor over Missouri last week while Northwestern was dropping a 23-0 scrap to Oklahoma, had let-terms in every spot except at the tackle, where Sophomores Jim Daniel and Jim Piccinini were to perform.

The Bucks boasted a five-pound per man advantage in the line, and a pound in the backfield. In 17 previous engagements the Bucks won 11, lost five and tied one with the Wildcats, the deadlock coming last year.
Rain and cold weather were promised for the contest, and the elements were expected to hold the crowd down to around 55,000. Game time was 2 p. m. (E. S. T.).

POTTERS LOSE FOR 1ST TIME

New Philadelphia Hands East Liverpool Its First Defeat

NEW PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 14.—Coach Joe Morbice's East Liverpool Potters suffered their first defeat of the 1939 football season here last night, losing to New Philadelphia's powerful Quakers, 41 to 18.

Jackie Castiglione, diminutive Quaker halfback, galloped 73 yards with the opening kick off to place the ball on the 5-yard line and led the way to Reese's 12 yard gains over the goal for the first tally in 44 seconds. Later in the first period Castiglione trotted over from the 6-yard line.

The Phillies continued to have things their own way in the second period and Castiglione and Fabiano each tallied six more points to put the game at 28-to-0 at the half way mark.

Barons Pay Largest Price For N. York Hockey Star

CLEVELAND, Oct. 14.—After having sold five of its players in the past few weeks, the Cleveland Barons made their first purchase of the season recently when they acquired the services of big Joe Jerwa from the New York Americans.

The giant defenseman has been a standout in the major circuit for several years. Although the amount of money involved was not announced, President Al Sutherland did state that it was more than he has ever before paid for a player.

Jerwa is 30 years old, stands six feet, two inches in height and tips the scales at 190 pounds. He is a high scorer for a defenseman and is also considered an exceptional puck handler.
The new Baron entered professional hockey ranks with Vancouver on the west coast back in 1928. He was purchased by the New York Rangers and also saw service with the Boston Bruins before going to the Americans. Jerwa has been with the Americans four seasons.

Today's deal now gives Coach nola over another point while Wherley snagged a 15-yard pass over the goal to make the score 41 to 0.

Woody Hayes ran in his second team near the end of the third period and East Liverpool run over the goal to make the score 41 to 0.

MASSILLON TOPS ALLIANCE SQUAD FOR 5TH IN ROW

Tigers Stop Hume, Blank Stark County Rival By 47-0 Score

MASSILLON, Oct. 14.—Unable to match Massillon's superior power, Alliance High school's Aviators fell before Coach Paul Brown's Tigers, 47 to 0, here last night.

Hills Hume, the Aviators' ace ball-tender and leading scorer in the state last year, was stopped cold by a fast-charging Massillon line.

It was the fifth victory of the season and 18th in a row for the Tigers, who now are the only undefeated Stark County Class A team. The game attracted 10,000 fans to swell attendance at Tiger games to over 60,000.

A previously undefeated Alliance High eleven saw its perfect record of not even being "scored upon" by three earlier opponents shattered early in the game as the Tigers marched up the field in the first period to score.

For the second straight year the Massillon Tigers succeeded in keeping Hume from crossing their goal line, which has been reached but twice this year both times by Eddie Prepp of Cleveland Cathedral Latin.

Punts Well

Playing as well as could be expected, Hume not only ran for his teammates, but did a fine job of punting, placing the Tigers in dangerous spots on several occasions. He also passed, but many of his tosses landed in the arms of the Tigers.

The Tigers played without Fullback Bill Zimmerman and Captain Earl Martin, regular center. Gordon Appleby replaced Martin while "Roscoe" Clendenning, subbing for Zimmerman, scored two touchdowns.

Sharing "scoring honors" with Clendenning was Poley Blunt, sub half who also tallied twice on runs of 21 and 27 yards. Red James and George Sussner each scored once.

Ray Getz kicked five extra points. The Tigers, after scoring but once in each of the first three stanzas, went wild in the fourth to collect four touchdowns and three extra points.

Big Red Scores On Pass, Then Makes Extra Point To Top Salem Eleven, 7-6

Quakers Score Early In Fourth Quarter after Threatening Struthers' Goal Line Twice In Second Period and Once In Third

Maybe it would be better for Salem High school Quakers if they outlived passes from this game of football.

It was a pass which robbed the Quakers of a possible victory at East Liverpool last week and again last night was a pass which brought the Salem eleven's downfall, they fell before a twice-beaten Struthers team, 7 to 6, before a crowd of 4,000 people at Reilly stadium.

The defeat was the first the Quakers have suffered in four games, while the victory was Struthers' second in five games.

Recovering a Salem fumble on the Quakers' five-yard line midway in the fourth period, Struthers capitalized on the opportunity to score their touchdown.

Two plays after Right End Brauer fell on Don West's fumble on the Salem five, Williams, a substitute, charged into the end zone to left Halfback Spano to count six points for the Big Red and tie the score at 6-6.

Brauer, who made the touchdown possible by recovering the fumble, then calmly sent a perfect placekick soaring between the uprights to count the extra point which gave the Big Red its unexpected victory.

The Struthers touchdown and extra point practically took all the fight out of the Quakers, who had pushed the Big Red all over the gridiron before scoring early in the fourth period.

The Salem touchdown climaxed a 30-yard drive which followed an exchange of punts at the start of the fourth quarter. The Quakers gained 19 yards on the punt exchange, then started their march to the goal line.

Wukotich Carries Burden
Marvin "Buster" Wukotich, hard-hitting fullback, was the big gun in the touchdown drive, carrying the ball six times to gain 23 of the 30 yards. He smashed his way from

Except for the one fatal time in the fourth quarter, Struthers failed to threaten the Salem goal line. The Big Red pushed as far as the Salem 35-yard stripe early in the first period, but this was the only time they were near scoring territory until the final period when they recovered the Salem fumble.

The Quakers threatened the visitor's goal line three times before they finally crashed over the line to push over a touchdown. They drove deep into Struthers' territory twice in the second quarter and once in the third period. Each time they lost the ball on downs.

Threaten Twice
Shortly after the start of the second period, Salem moved from its own 30-yard line to the Struthers 20 before losing the ball on downs. Later in the same period, the Quakers marched from the Struthers 39-yard stripe to the five-yard marker, where their attack bogged down.

Starting immediately after the kickoff at the opening of the second half, the Quakers uncorked a sustained drive which carried from their own 41-yard marker to the Struthers eight-yard line, but once again they lost the ball on downs when they were within the shadow of the goal posts.

Poor choice of plays lost the Quakers the scoring opportunities. On each occasion, when they were deep in Struthers' territory and needed only a short gain for first down, Quarterback Johnny Vohlo called for a plunge into the line.

College Football Shifts Into High Gear Today As Top Ranking Teams Meet

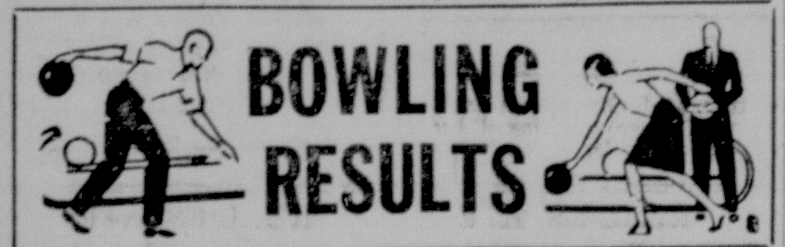

Pitt-Duke Clash At Pittsburgh Heads Intersectional Program; Big Ten Offers Lots of Action; Ivy League Also Busy

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Behind a nicely-balanced offense featuring intersectional games on the one hand and backyard scraps on the other, college football really shifts into high gear today.

Intersectionally, the day's standout should be the meeting between Pitt's de-emphasized but faster-moving Panthers and the Blue Devils of Duke university.

Notre Dame-Southern Methodist, Texas-Oklahoma, Tulane-Fordham and Southern California-Illinois form the second line of attack.

Merve Thomas of Meissner's, who had a big night at the Grate lanes earlier this week, continued his "hot" streak by hammering out a 583 series on games of 176, 225 and 182.

Barons Pay Largest Price For N. York Hockey Star

CLEVELAND, Oct. 14.—After having sold five of its players in the past few weeks, the Cleveland Barons made their first purchase of the season recently when they acquired the services of big Joe Jerwa from the New York Americans of the National league.

The giant defenseman has been a standout in the major circuit for several years. Although the amount of money involved was not announced, President Al Sutphin did state that it was more than he has ever before paid for a player.

Jerwa is 39 years old, stands six feet, two inches in height and tips the scales at 190 pounds. He is a high scorer for a defenseman and is also considered an exceptional puck handler.

The new Baron entered professional hockey ranks with Vancouver on the west coast back in 1928. He was purchased by the New York Rangers and also saw service with the Boston Bruins before going to the Americans. Jerwa has been with the Americans four seasons.

Today's deal now gives Coach Bill Cook four ace defensemen. His other body-checkers include Freddie Robertson, Dick Adolph and Harold Jackson.

The Baron management also announced the sale of Bill Beveridge, goalie purchased last year from the defunct Montreal Maroons. Beveridge was sold to Syracuse. This means that Moe Roberts will carry on for Cleveland in front of the cage.

Other Barons who were sold in previous deals included Yip Foster, Art Berlett, Mickey Blake and George Patterson.

IRISH SEEKING THIRD VICTORY
Notre Dame to go Against Southern Methodist At South Bend
SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 14.—Notre Dame's football team, bidding for national championship honors which have eluded them since 1930, try for a third straight major victory today at the expense of Southern Methodist University's tricky Mustangs.

A crowd of from 40,000 to 45,000 is expected to watch the duel, which probably will see S. M. U. depend on a strong aerial attack to offset the Irish running game built around Steve Sitko, Joe Theising, Lou Zontini and Bob Saggau.

Preston Johnston, speedy sophomore halfback, is the spark of the S. M. U. ground offense.

Lack of reserve strength may handicap the Irish, who eked out slim field-goal wins over Purdue and Georgia Tech in their first two starts this season. Southern Methodist's 1939 record contains a 7-7 tie with Oklahoma, conqueror of Northwestern, and a win over North Texas State Teachers.

The kickoff is scheduled for 3 p. m.

Football really comes into its own this week now that the baseball season officially has ended. Outstanding eastern games include Duke at Pittsburgh and Army at Columbia. The gridlers pictured above may be the stars for their teams. Perdue is an end, Hatch a back and Kristofek a tackle.

MASSILLON TOPS ALLIANCE SQUAD FOR 5TH IN ROW

Tigers Stop Hume, Blank Stark County Rival By 47-0 Score

MASSILLON, Oct. 14.—Unable to match Massillon's superior power, Alliance High school's Aviators fell before Coach Paul Brown's Tigers, 47 to 0, here last night.

Hills Hume, the Aviators' ace ball-toter and leading scorer in the state last year, was stopped cold by a fast-charging Massillon line.

It was the fifth victory of the season and 18th in a row for the Tigers, who now are the only undefeated Stark County Class A team. The game attracted 10,000 fans to swell attendance at Tiger games to over 60,000.

A previously undefeated Alliance High eleven saw its perfect record of not even being scored upon by three earlier opponents shattered early in the game as the Tigers marched up the field in the first period to score.

For the second straight year the Massillon Tigers succeeded in keeping Hume from crossing their goal line, which has been reached but twice this year both times by Eddie Prekop of Cleveland Cathedral Latin.

Playing as well as could be expected, Hume not only ran for his teammates, but did a fine job of punting, placing the Tigers in dangerous spots on several occasions. He also passed but many of his tosses landed in the arms of the Tigers.

The Tigers played without Fullback Bill Zimmerman and Captain Earl Martin, regular center. Gordon Appleby replaced Martin while Toscoe Clendenning, subbing for Zimmerman, scored two touchdowns. Sharing scoring honors with Clendenning was Pokey Blunt, sub half who also tallied twice on runs of 31 and 27 yards. Red James and George Slusser each scored once.

Ray Getz kicked five extra points. The Tigers, after scoring but once in each of the first three stanzas, went wild in the fourth to collect four touchdowns and three extra points.

Big Red Scores On Pass, Then Makes Extra Point To Top Salem Eleven, 7-6

Quakers Score Early In Fourth Quarter after Threatening Struthers' Goal Line Twice In Second Period and Once In Third

Maybe it would be better for Salem High school's Quakers if they outlaid passes from this game of football.

It was a pass which robbed the Quakers of a possible victory at East Liverpool last week and again last night it was a pass which brought the Salem eleven's downfall as they fell before a twice-beaten Struthers team, 7 to 6, before a crowd of 4,000 people at Reilly stadium.

The defeat was the first the Quakers have suffered in four games, while the victory was Struthers' second in five games.

Recovering a Salem fumble on the Quakers' five-yard line midway in the fourth period, Struthers capitalized on the opportunity to score their touchdown.

Passes for Touchdown
Two plays after Right End Brauer fell on Don West's fumble on the Salem five, Williams, a substitute back, passed into the end zone to Left Halfback Spano to count six points for the Big Red and tie the score at 6-6.

Brauer, who made the touchdown possible by recovering the fumble, then calmly sent a perfect placekick soaring between the uprights to count the extra point which gave the Big Red its unexpected victory.

The Struthers touchdown and extra point practically took all the fight out of the Quakers, who had pushed the Big Red all over the gridiron before scoring early in the fourth period.

The Salem touchdown climaxed a 30-yard drive which followed an exchange of punts at the start of the fourth quarter. The Quakers gained 19 yards on the punt exchange, then started their march to the goal line.

Wukotich Carries Burden
Marvin (Buster) Wukotich, hard-hitting fullback, was the big gun in the touchdown drive, carrying the ball six times to gain 23 of the 30 yards. He smashed his way from the 13 to the two-yard stripe to set up the score, then crashed over two plays later from the one-foot line.

Felix DiAntonio, who came up from the reserves to take over the center position after Melvin Wukotich was switched into the backfield last week, attempted to dropkick for the extra point, but his boot was low, sailing six feet beneath the cross-bar.

Except for the one fatal time in the fourth quarter, Struthers failed to threaten the Salem goal line. The Big Red pushed as far as the Salem 35-yard stripe early in the first period, but this was the only time they were near scoring territory until the final period when they recovered the Salem fumble.

The Quakers threatened the visitors' goal line three times before they finally found enough punch to push over a touchdown. They drove deep into Struthers' territory twice in the second quarter and once in the third period. Each time they lost the ball on downs.

Threaten Twice
Shortly after the start of the second period, Salem moved from its own 30-yard line to the Struthers 26 before losing the ball on downs. Later in the same period, the Quakers marched from the Struthers 39-yard stripe to the five-yard marker, where their attack bogged down.

Starting immediately after the kickoff at the opening of the second half, the Quakers uncorked a sustained drive which carried from their own 41-yard marker to the Struthers eight-yard line, but once again they lost the ball on downs when they were within the shadow of the goal posts.

Poor choice of plays lost the Quakers the scoring opportunities. On each occasion when they were deep in Struthers' territory and needed only a short gain for first down, Quarterback Johnny Volio called for a plunge into the line.

No Compromise On Defense

"This western hemisphere is our domain. Let there be no compromise about our right to defend or trade within this area. If it is challenged by any nation, the answer must be war. Our policy of neutrality should have this as its foundation.

"We desire the utmost friendship with the people of Canada. If their country is ever attacked, our navy will be defending their seas, our soldiers will fight on their battlefields, our fliers will die in their skies.

"But have they the right to draw this hemisphere into a European war simply because they prefer the crown of England to American independence?

"Sooner or later we must demand the freedom of this continent and its surrounding islands from the dictates of European power. American history clearly indicates this need. As long as European powers maintain their influence in our hemisphere, we are likely to find ourselves involved in their troubles. And they will lose no opportunity to involve us."

Repeal of the arms embargo, Lindbergh said, would not assist democracy in Europe "because I do not believe this is a war for democracy."

"This is a war over the balance of power in Europe."

Theater Attractions

Wallace Beery returns to the sea in his role of a New England sea captain in "Thunder Afloat" which shows Sunday, Monday and Tuesday at the State.

A spirited story of the little-known days before the World war when enemy submarines invaded American coastal waters and sank 88 ships before an improvised fleet of wooden sub chasers put an end to their campaign of raids, the picture gives Beery a salty role reminiscent of his early parts in "Min and Bill" and "Tugboat Annie."

Chester Morris, Virginia Grey, Douglas Dumbrille, Carl Esmond, John Qualen, Regis Toomey, Addison Richards and Jonathan Hale are seen in important roles in the melodrama.

Lana Turner Starred

Young Lana Turner, seen recently in "These Glamour Girls", with Lew Ayres, takes another step toward stardom in her role in "Dancing Co-ed", comedy satire on Hollywood, which shows Wednesday and Thursday at the State. Artie Shaw and his orchestra, Richard Carlson, Ann Rutherford, Lee Bowman, Thurston Hall, Leon Errol, Roscoe Karns and Mary Beth Hughes are also featured.

Another young actress recently elevated to stardom, Ann Sheridan is teamed with the Dead End Kids in "Angels Wash Their Faces", to be featured at the State Friday and Saturday. Ronald Reagan, Bonita Granville, Henry O'Neill and Jackie Searl appear with the others in the story which presents the Kids as slightly reformed upholders of the law who attempt to bring justice to a group of adult criminals.

Concluding tonight at the State is Ginger Rogers' new comedy, "Fifth Avenue Girl," featuring Walter Connolly, Verree Teasdale and Tim Holt.

At The Grand
The double bill Sunday at the Grand is: "Everything's On Ice," starring little Irene Dare, ice-skating sensation, with Roscoe Karns, Edgar Kennedy, Lynne Roberts and Eric Linden; and Jackie Cooper and Freddie Bartholomew in "Two Bright Boys."

Wednesday's double bill at the Grand will be: "Hawaiian Nights," with Johnny Downs, Mary Carlisle, Constance Moore, Eddie Quillan, Princess Luana, Thurston Hall and Matty Mahneck's orchestra, and "The Escape," with Kane Richmond, Amanda Duff, June Gale, Edward Norris, Henry Armetta and Frank Reicher.

John Mack Brown has the leading role in "Desperate Trails," a western, showing at the Grand Friday and Saturday.

Concluding at the Grand tonight is William Boyd's "Range War," a Hopalong Cassidy western.
